

On Saturday, February 11, the Sioux County Emergency Management Association (EMS) held its annual training conference at the Prairie Winds Event Center in Orange City, IA.

The training is held every year and benefits local emergency medical personnel so that they can receive quality training without traveling long distances.

This year the training topics consisted of dealing with stroke patients, assessing pediatric trauma, and new trends in illegal drug use and how that may affect patient care.

Sioux County Emergency Management Director, Chief Deputy Nate Huizenga, assists in the planning of the conference every year and said, "The committee members and speakers provided very valuable information that greatly benefitted the attendees and made the day a big success."
